Q: ng-repeat: has not been applied to a control I am new to angular and cannot understand why my code is giving an error. This is my html code: {{ data.message }} This is my angular js code: $scope.data = { message: null } And this is the error I get: "$digest already in progress $apply has not been applied to a control" A: I think you'll need to ng-app for this, but I don't know why you would need to do that... {{ data.message }} app.js angular.module('myApp', []).controller('MyCtrl',function($scope){ $scope.data = { message: null } }); 8

What's New In Adobe Photoshop CC?

We manufacture Standard 170 Stainless Steel, high-frequency welded coil springs for general purpose, medical, and sanitary products -The springs can be welded with different weld strength; -Customized Spring Shape, size, type and performance can be meet the different application requirements; -The welding quality can be guaranteed by our experienced team. High frequency Ultrasonic welding machines 3. High-frequency Ultrasonic welding machines Niiragen High-frequency ultrasonic welding machinery is the most advanced automatic high-frequency welding technology, which is developed and innovated to overcome shortcomings of traditional welding method and the most popular high-frequency welding equipment. It is developed by our team of high-frequency welding technology experts. Dysonics high-frequency ultrasonic welding machine is applied to the manufacture of the electronic wire and coil springs, and it can achieve the high-frequency welding of different wires, and applicable to the wires including copper wires, nickel wires, steel wires, nickel coated steel wires, plated steel wires and copper coated steel wires. It has the advantages of high speed, high precision, convenient operation, long work life and safe working environment. High-frequency Ultrasonic Welding Testing We can adopt high-frequency welding technology for the production of high-frequency wires and other coil springs. The high-frequency welding process is divided into three steps: First, the weld wire is welded by the tip of the ultrasonic horn and is fused into a piece of continuous wire. Next, the electric current supply is interrupted to facilitate a gas-air mixture to be forced into the welded area. Finally, the welded area is compressed and welded by the ultrasonic horn. The entire process is completed in approximately 5 seconds. High frequency welded coil springs 5. High-frequency welded coil springs The high-frequency welded coil springs are mainly used in the electrical equipment, household, construction, medical and industrial fields. The coil springs are used as the connection between the parts of the electrical equipment, the bearing of the machine, between the pieces of furniture, and the connection between the equipment and the skeleton. The coil springs can also be made to facilitate the transformation, transmission, and storage of the mechanical energy generated by engines. They are also widely used in the industry. Coil Springs
