Adobe Photoshop, sometimes called Photoshop, or simply Photoshop, is a pixel based image editing tool used by professional and amateur photographers, graphic designers, web designers, and others to edit photos. Photoshop has long been the de facto professional photo editing tool; there are many tutorials online for anyone interested in learning Photoshop basics or more in depth tutorials for more advanced users. Your own images should be edited by you with your own skills, knowledge, and creativity. Adobe Photoshop is the best tool for this because it has many advanced features that allow you to make whatever changes you want. Photoshop's standard edition was first released in 1993 and was created by Aldus and slowly evolved from there. Since then, it has made its way around the world, and everyone can use Photoshop regardless of their country. You should have no problem getting a copy of Photoshop if you live in the United States or Europe. However, if you live in Asia or the Middle East, you will have to buy a pirated copy. The price of the program is very expensive, but you can get a discount if you buy a serial number from the pirated sites. The price will vary depending on your region. History Photoshop has been around for over a decade now, and has gone through many changes. In 1990, it was created as a program to convert images into Flash files, much like what Paint Shop Pro does today. Adobe Photoshop version 1.0 was released on April 18, 1993. It was the first version of the program that was free of charge for non-commercial use. The name of Photoshop was inspired by the photo-editing software PixiPro. In 2007, a new version was released called Photoshop CS3. CS2 was released in 2002, and CS1 was released in 1997. What Photoshop does Adobe Photoshop is more than just an image editor. It can do everything from creating video clips, editing videos, creating 3D models, and generating PDF files. What's New In Photoshop CS4?

January 7, 2007 Sunday morning Good morning! I hope everyone had a great weekend! Here's a glimpse of our weekend. We hosted a big pot luck party. I'm going to post a recipe from it in my Recipes feed. There were a lot of goodies on the table and around 12 people came. I know how to please my taste buds. Here's another shot of the potluck and my dear sisters and brother and their family. We had a really good time, but the food was a bit hit and miss. I ended up getting a mango salad instead of one I wanted. It was an accident. I should have known. I made one and wasn't too thrilled with it, so I sent most of it home. The pictures turned out really good though. I have been thinking about this song and recording it for some time. After I finished this track, I played it for two of my sisters and asked them how they felt about the song. It wasn't even released yet. They both agreed that it would make a good single. So if I did a video for it, it will be the first. I'm going to work on it during the week and upload it on Saturday evening. I had a little fun with this model. We made a very primitive basketball basket out of foam core. The size was about 8 x 8 x 24. It was inspired by the picture below. I played ball in it while the girls put a crazy amount of glue on it. This picture was taken the next day. The basket still looks pretty nice, but it was literally falling apart. I will upload the video on Friday. Here are some pictures from the party. I have also attached a recipe from the potluck. I hope you guys enjoy! :) Oh my gosh. I think the photo is totally adorable! Your flowers are so pretty. You are totally right, I am so ready for spring. The weather in SW Ohio has been horrible, but we are about to have a pretty decent blizzard. I cannot wait until the temps are in the 50's. The potluck was really fun. I'm sure we'll be doing one next year. Wish I'd know you guys are coming. This was fun, but it does me good to hear a little bit about where you live in SW Ohio. I don't know where I live in SW Ohio.
